20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The Labor Advisory Committee for Trade Negotiations and Trade Policy (LAC) is an integral part of the U.S. International Trade Policy Development Structure. Its main function is to provide the Executive Branch with advice on trade negotiations and trade policy. The Department of Labor and USTR are jointly responsible for the Labor Advisory Committee. The LAC was established pursuant to section 135(c)(1-2) of the Trade Act of 1974, 19 U.S.C. 2155(c)(1-2), as amended by section 1103 of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979, the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988, and Executive Order 11846 of March 27, 1975. The LAC makes its views known through advice offered in the course of its meetings, in letters addressed to Administration officials, in Committee Reports, and in follow-up discussions with principals' designated liaisons.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

Members of the LAC are appointed by the USTR and the Secretary of Labor. USTR and DOL have sought to streamline and consolidate the membership of the LAC to better reflect the composition of the American workforce. Members are representatives from the labor community, normally presidents of national or international unions who represent the interests of their members, and more generally the interests of all U.S. workers. Members include representatives from the largest U.S. trade union confederations, which represent U.S. workers at meetings of the International Labor Organization (ILO). Members represent a comprehensive range of workers in a wide range of economic sectors. The Committee was re-chartered on May 23, 2016 and 21 members from the previous Committee were reappointed. Four new members were also appointed from unions that have historically been represented on the LAC. The previous membership terms ended on May 25, 2016. The new slate was appointed on August 23, 2016, and ends on May 23, 2020. Additional members will be appointed to reflect and maintain this balance, as needed.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Through the LAC principals and their designated liaisons (who work in close coordination with each of their principals), the Administration maintains an ongoing dialogue in which it can receive advice, explain American trade policy actions and decisions, and discuss policy issues as they arise. Committee members have access to ongoing trade agreement negotiation documents through a secure USTR website and offer advice on those documents. The LAC meets at the liaisons level regularly, and at the principals level at irregular intervals, depending upon the level of activity during trade negotiations and the nature and volume of reports required. In FY 2018 there was one LAC principals meeting.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The LAC plays a unique role in the trade advisory process since it is the only committee whose main purpose is to provide advice from American labor on trade issues. The LAC's main focus is on the impact of trade policy decisions on U.S. employment and wage levels. Because principals and liaisons are required to have passed background checks and have access to non-public information, they are in a unique position to provide timely, detailed information and feedback on U.S. trade policy.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

The meetings are closed when sensitive and classified information regarding American trade policy and negotiating objectives are discussed.

21. Remarks

The Secretary of Labor and the United States Trade Representative (USTR) are the co-chairs of the Committee. The Committee reports to the Secretary of Labor through the Deputy Undersecretary for International Affairs, U.S. Department of Labor. Committee costs include salary and benefits for 0.30 FTEs plus agency expenses incurred for conducting background investigations for Committee members.
