20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The Labor Advisory Committee for Trade Negotiations and Trade Policy (LAC) is an integral part of the U.S. International Trade Policy Development Structure. Its main function is to provide the Executive Branch with advice on trade negotiations and trade policy. The Department of Labor (DOL) and the United States Trade

Representative (USTR) are jointly responsible for the LAC. The LAC was established pursuant to section 135(c)(1-2) of the Trade Act of 1974, 19 U.S.C. 2155(c)(1-2), as amended by section 1103 of the Trade Agreements Act of 1979, the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988, and Executive Order 11846 of March 27, 1975. The LAC makes its views known through advice offered in the course of its meetings, in letters addressed to Administration officials, in committee reports, and in follow-up discussions with principals' designated liaisons.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The LAC consists of no more than 30 members, jointly appointed by the Secretary of Labor and the United States Trade Representative. All members are representative members from the labor community, normally national or international presidents who represent the interests of their members, and more generally the interests of U.S. workers. Members represent a diverse range of workers in economic sectors that are directly and indirectly affected by international trade policy. The USTR and DOL have sought to streamline and consolidate LAC membership to accurately reflect the composition of the American workforce. Given the wide-ranging views of its membership, the LAC is a forum where recommendations on trade negotiations and trade policy are informed by the diversity of the organizations, and of the American workers, represented.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

No committee meetings were held during Fiscal Year 2025. The committee meets at irregular intervals at the call of the United States Trade

Representative and the Secretary of Labor. The frequency and relevance of committee meetings depends on such factors as the level of activity during trade negotiations, the needs of the Secretary of Labor and the United States Trade Representative, the nature and volume of reports required by statute, as well as additional reports that may be provided by the Committee for consideration by the Secretary of Labor and the United States Trade Representative

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The LAC plays a unique role in the trade advisory process since it is the only committee whose main purpose is to provide advice from American labor on trade issues. The LAC's main focus is on the impact of trade policy decisions on U.S. employment and wage levels. Because principals and liaisons are required to have passed background checks and have access to non-public information, they are in a unique position to provide timely, detailed information and feedback on U.S. trade policy.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

The meetings are closed because safeguarded trade-sensitive information regarding American trade policy and negotiating objectives are discussed.

21. Remarks

The Secretary of Labor and the USTR co-chair the LAC. The LAC reports to the Secretary of Labor through the Deputy Undersecretary for International Affairs, U.S. Department of Labor.

Narrative Description

The LAC was created to ensure that U.S. trade policy and trade negotiation objectives adequately reflect U.S. labor interests. The LAC offers advice and recommendations to the Secretary of Labor and the United States Trade Representative on issues and general policy matters concerning labor and trade negotiations, the operation of any trade agreement once entered into, and other matters related to administration of the trade policy of the United States. The LAC provides reports to the President, the Congress, and the Office of the United States Trade Representative at the conclusion of negotiations for each new trade agreement.

What is the approximate Number of recommendations produced by this committee for the life of the committee?

Number of Recommendations Comments

The 11 recommendations reflect the aggregate of reported LAC ACR recommendations over the life of the committee.

What is the approximate Percentage of these recommendations that have been or will be Fully implemented by the agency?

% of Recommendations Fully Implemented Comments

DOL and USTR have found all recommendations by the LAC to be informative and helpful. Each recommendation has been studied and evaluated to understand its strengths and weaknesses. While it is difficult to put precise metrics on the adoption of these recommendations, DOL and USTR believe that each recommendation, whether it is fully implemented or not, improves the overall quality of U.S. trade policy and/or negotiation positions. In particular, DOL and USTR want to address and incorporate, to the extent possible, the concerns of U.S. workers.

Action Comments

The LAC advice is taken into consideration when trade agreements and trade policy are negotiated and implemented. Though advice may not always come in the form of formal recommendations, the LAC's views are thoughtfully and thoroughly examined by the two agencies as they work together to formulate and improve trade and labor policies.
