20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

Members of the President's Council advise the President about ways to promote the benefits of youth sports, fitness, and nutrition. Specifically, Council members shall recommend strategies for reestablishing the Presidential Fitness Test, with any appropriate improvements, as the main assessment tool for a Presidential Fitness Award; strategies for the development and promotion of Presidential challenges and school-based programs that reward excellence in physical education; actions to expand opportunities at the global, national, state, and local levels for participation in sports and engagement in physical fitness; bold and innovative fitness goals for American youth with the aim of fostering a new generation of healthy, active citizens; campaigns and events that elevate American sports, military readiness, and health traditions; opportunities at the global, national, State, and local levels that expand participation in sports and emphasize the importance of an active lifestyle and good nutrition, which should include partnerships with professional athletes, sports organizations, player's associations, influential figures, nonprofit organizations, and community groups to inspire all Americans, among other initiatives; and strategies to address the growing national security threat posed by the increasing rates of childhood obesity, chronic diseases, and sedentary lifestyles, which threaten the future readiness of the United States workforce and military.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The President's Council may consist of up to 30 members. The President selects individuals with varied experience from multiple sectors. Examples include amateur and professional athletes; health care professionals; nutrition professionals; educators; and individuals with experience in youth sports and fitness.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

The Council shall meet at the request of the President; with a maximum of two meetings per year.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The President’s Council is the only federal advisory committee focused solely on physical activity, sports, fitness, and nutrition for the health and well-being of all Americans. It was initially established as the President's Council on Youth Fitness in 1956 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower to develop and promote physical fitness and sports activities for American youth. Since then, it has functioned in an advisory capacity to the President and the Secretary of Health and Human Services and has provided guidance on ways to expand messaging about the importance of physical activity, sports participation, and good nutrition for the health of all Americans. The members of the President’s Council provide an invaluable, irreplaceable, and cost-effective resource of expert advisors and high-profile ambassadors on topics such as the benefits and value of sports participation, regular physical activity, and good nutrition for all Americans. The President’s Council members represent a unique connection between the private sector and the federal government, that ensures consistent messaging to the American public across physical activity, sports, and nutrition guidance.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

President’s Council meetings are open to the public.

21. Remarks

The President’s Council functions as a non-discretionary federal advisory committee because it was established by a Presidential directive. Under the provisions of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (FACA), the appropriate action must be taken by the President or agency head every two years to authorize continuation of the President’s Council, most recently through Executive Order 14327 dated July 31, 2025. Members of the President’s Council serve at the pleasure of the President. The only annual reporting requirement that the President’s Council must satisfy is to update the file maintained in the FACA database for the Annual Comprehensive Review.
