20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) accomplishes its purpose by holding at least one meeting per year where the committee members meet and discuss topics of importance presented to them by the Food Safety and Inspection Service.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The membership of the National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) is balanced by ensuring that all stakeholders have representation on the committee through the appointment of members from the following groups: academia, industry, state/local government, public health, consumer and consumer organizations. Membership of this Committee is also balanced in terms of both expertise in meat and poultry safety, public health, other FSIS policies, as well as geographic diversity.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Estimated Number of Meetings per Year - The committee generally meets once a year to discuss and make recommendations on topics designated by the Agency. The committee receives updates on topics from previous years to show how recommendations have been implemented.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) is necessary to advise the Secretary of Agriculture on matters affecting meat and poultry products inspection, food safety, and other matters that fall within the scope of the Federal Meat Inspection Act and the Poultry Products Inspection Act

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

N/A

21. Remarks

FSIS held a virtual public meeting September 16-17, 2024. Committee reports are available on the FSIS website at www.fsis.usda.gov/news-events/publications/2024-nacmpi-reports
