20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) accomplishes its purpose by holding at least one meeting per year where the committee members meet and discuss topics of importance presented to them by the Food Safety and Inspection Service.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The membership of the National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) is balanced by ensuring that all stakeholders have representation on the committee through the appointment of equal numbers of members from the following groups: academia, consumer, industry, and state/local gov.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Estimated Number of Meetings per Year - The committee generally meets once a year to discuss and make recommendations on topics designated by the Agency. The committee receives updates on topics from previous years to show how recommendations have been implemented.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

The National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection (NACMPI) is necessary to advise the Secretary of Agriculture on matters affecting federal and state meat, poultry and processed egg product food safety policies that will contribute to USDA's regulatory policy development.
