20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The Commission meets regularly to discuss matters relative to the needs of children in disaster situations. It convenes experts in emergency management, pediatrics, and other relevant fields to explore known areas of challenge. The Commission also expects to conduct research relative to the issues surrounding children and disasters.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The membership is appointed by Congressional leadership and the President of the United States.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Estimated Number of Meetings per Year - 4

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

This Commission was established by Congress in the Consolidated Appropriations Act, 2008 (P.L. 110-161), thus the Commission is necessary to fulfil the law. The Commission was created by Congress to examine and assess the needs of children as they relate to preparation for, response to, and recovery from natural and manmade disasters.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

NA

Narrative Description

The National Commission on Children and Disasters was created as an independent Federal commission to explore issues and gaps surrounding our nation's ability to respond to the unique needs of children before, during and after disasters, and to make recommendations for improvements to the President and Congress based on its findings. While the Commission does not therefore support any single agency's mission or strategic plan, it does support the Federal government's overarching goal of ensuring that the needs all Americans, including children, are understood and planned for effectively in all hazards (i.e. natural disasters, nuclear events, biological attacks, pandemics, etc.), regardless of age.

What are the most significant program outcomes associated with this committee?

Checked if Applies

Improvements to health or safety

- Trust in government
- Major policy changes
- Advance in scientific research
- Effective grant making
- Improved service delivery
- Increased customer satisfaction
- Implementation of laws or regulatory requirements
- Other

Outcome Comments

The goal of the recommendations the Commission will make to the President and Congress is to improve our nation’s ability to care for children and their families before, during and after disasters. The President and Congress will ultimately determine whether and how to implement the recommendations, either through policy change, legislation, regulation, or less formal means.

What are the cost savings associated with this committee?

Cost Savings Comments

Cost reduction is not a focus of the Commission. Improved response to the environmental, mental and physical health and well-being of children during and after disasters by Federal, state and local governments, medical providers, community caregivers, and the emergency response framework is the sole focus of the Commission as it develops its recommendations.

Action Comments

While the President and Congress are not required to implement the recommendations of the Commission, the Commission finds that Federal agencies with which it interfaces periodically refocus or increase their efforts toward improving their ability to support our country's in responding to the needs of children in disasters. For example, some agencies are exploring the revision of grant guidance to include more specific language relating to children.
