20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The Committee, considering the impact advanced technology, current and emerging threats, and evolving vulnerabilities have on the Nuclear Command and Control System, shall: (1) Examine the full range of NCCS policies, procedures, responsibilities, functions, capabilities, management and oversight necessary to: (a) Meet national and department/agency policy and guidance; and (b) Maintain the highest standards required for planning, directing, and controlling nuclear weapons, weapons systems, and associated operations; and (2) Recommend changes to NCCS policies, responsibilities, functions, capabilities, management structures, and oversight mechanisms, as well as identifying other enhancements to NCCS elements (facilities, equipment, personnel, communications and procedures). The Committee's review shall not address nuclear force size and structure, deterrence strategy, and arms control/threat reduction analyses.

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

The Committee shall be composed of a chairperson and no more than five distinguished members, whose diverse expertise and background enable them to provide recommendations for improving the National Command and Control System to the NCCS Executive Agent. The Committee members shall be appointed by the Secretary of Defense for the duration of the Committee, and their appointments will be renewed on an annual basis. Those members, who are not full-time Federal officers or employees, shall serve as Special Government Employees under the authority of 5 U.S.C. § 3109. Committee members, with the exception of travel and per diem for official travel, shall serve without compensation. The Secretary of Defense shall select the Committee's Chairperson.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

The Committee shall meet at the call of the Committee's Designated Federal Officer, in consultation with the Committee's Chairperson.

The estimated number of Committee meetings is 20 per year.

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

Since the 2003 promulgation of NSPD-28, United States Nuclear Weapons Command and Control, Safety and Security, there has been no inter-departmental, comprehensive review of nuclear command and control responsibilities, capabilities, and management and oversight mechanisms. In the interim, significant policy and guidance changes, emerging threats and vulnerabilities, restructuring of NCCS Departments and Agencies, and technological opportunities and challenges have occurred. These factors affect the ability of the eight federal departments and agencies comprising the NCCS to maintain an appropriate balance between assuring the authorized use of nuclear weapons while assuring against their unauthorized or inadvertent use and to provide effective crisis support to the President. In response to this situation, the Secretary of Defense, in his role as the NCCS Executive Agent, approved the 2006 NSS Annual Report. This report contained a commitment, supported by all NCCS federal departments and agencies, to conduct a comprehensive, independent review of the NCCS. The Deputy Secretary of Defense, Chairman of the NCCS Committee of Principals (CoP), endorsed such a review at the July 2007 CoP meetings and established a goal of providing the incoming administration a report that provides a nuclear action plan for their future efforts.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

Meetings are not closed to the public unless the Department of Defense determines that items on the planned agenda meet the closed meeting provisions of 5 U.S.C. § 552b(c). Pursuant to DoD policy closed meetings can only be authorized by the DoD Sponsor (i.e., the Director of the U.S. Nuclear Command and Control System Support Staff), and only after consultation with the Office of the Department of Defense General Counsel.

21. Remarks

The Committee has concluded its work; its report, which is classified Top Secret, has been forwarded to the Secretary of Defense and the National Command Authority.
