20a. How does the Committee accomplish its purpose?

The primary function of the committee is to synthesize and assess the state of knowledge on the topic of abrupt climate change and communicate this information to the U.S.

Geological Survey. Committee members will meet and discuss issues relating to the study design, research methodology, data sources and quality, and study findings. The committee will draft a report that will serve as the CCSP definitive document on current knowledge pertaining to the topic of the paleoclimate record of the high latitudes. The issue is complex and global in extent and the primary knowledge base for this field currently resides within the academic sector. Accordingly, the FACA committee will be composed primarily of non-Federal scientists. Federal scientists will be entrained as contributing authors and/or reviewers as the development of this S&A progresses

20b. How does the Committee balance its membership?

A prospectus was prepared for S&A 1.2: Past Climate Variability and Change in the Arctic and at High Latitudes by scientists at the USGS, NOAA, and DOE. Members of this committee have been selected based on their expertise on the subject matter and their willingness to serve. Attention was given to providing a balanced membership by including scientists from different research disciplines who are experts in their respective fields and whose expertise will be required to address the topic of S&A 1.2 comprehensively.

20c. How frequent and relevant are the Committee Meetings?

Estimated Number of Meetings per Year - 2

Estimated Total Meetings - 3

20d. Why can't the advice or information this committee provides be obtained elsewhere?

A periodic synthesis and assessment of the cumulative knowledge associated with a scientific topic is a critical tool for research planning and policy formulation. The Climate Change Science Program (CCSP), a consortium of federal agencies performing climate science, has established a synthesis and assessment (S&A) program as a part of its Strategic Plan. There are 21 S&A products to be administered by 13 federal agencies over a 5 year period. The U.S. Geological Survey, a participant in the CCSP, is responsible for 3 S&A products. S&A Product 1.2: Past Climate Variability and Change in the Arctic and at High Latitudes is the subject of this proposed federal advisory committee.

20e. Why is it necessary to close and/or partially closed committee meetings?

n/a

21. Remarks

This FAC will terminate after their report has been published and all congressional briefings have been completed. This will occur within two years of the creation of this committee.

Narrative Description

The USGS serves the Nation by providing reliable scientific information to 1. describe and understand the Earth; 2. minimize loss of life and property from natural disasters; 3. manage its water, biological, energy, and mineral resources; and 4. enhance and protect the quality of life. It is the primary science agency of the Department of the Interior. The USGS carries out its research and activities at multiple levels including: global, National, regional, State, and local. Because the USGS encompasses numerous natural science disciplines, it is possible for the bureau to bring physical plus biological science to natural resource management problems. The aggregation of this information provides a national perspective on the landscape of the country, from understanding processes deep beneath the Earth's surface to preserving habitat for threatened and endangered species. As the science Bureau of the Department of the Interior, the USGS participates in the interagency Climate Change Science Program, a primary goal for which is the creation of 21 synthesis reports on topics related to climate change. The purpose of these reports is to provide policymakers with an assessment of the best available science on the chosen topic. The USGS has Lead Agency responsibility for the production of SAP 1.2, a synthesis of what is known about the past climate history of the Arctic. By producing this report, this committee supports the Bureau's mission as the science Bureau of the Agency and the strategic plan of the CCSP.

Cost Savings Comments

The academic members of the FAC for CCSP SAP 1.2 have volunteered their time to produce and coordinate this report. Were the federal government required to pay the salaries of federal employees to produce this report, it would require the cost equivalent of 4 GS-15 salaries for approximately six months.

What is the approximate Number of recommendations produced by this committee for the life of the committee?
